1. Gender Identity

Please indicate which of the following terms best describes your gender identity. Check as many as apply. For select options, you may specify further below after selecting.

Response Option	Definition Sub-Text
<input type="checkbox"/> Genderfluid	Gender fluidity conveys a wider, more flexible range of gender expression, with interests and behaviors that may change from day to day. Gender fluid people do not feel confined by restrictive boundaries of stereotypical expectations of women or men. In other words, they may feel they are a woman some days and a man on others, or possibly feel that neither term describes them accurately.
<input type="checkbox"/> Genderqueer	Individuals who do not follow gender stereotypes based on the sex they were assigned at birth. They may identify and express themselves as “feminine men” or “masculine women” or as androgynous, outside of the categories “boy/man” and “girl/woman.”
<input type="checkbox"/> Man (cis, trans)	A person whose gender identity may correspond with social expectations associated with being a man and/or masculine. People who identify as men may be cis (gender identity ‘matches’ birth assigned sex) or trans (gender identity is different from birth assigned sex).
<input type="checkbox"/> Nonbinary	An umbrella term for gender identities that fall outside of the man-woman binary.
<input type="checkbox"/> Questioning	When a person is exploring their own gender identity or is unsure with regards to their gender identity.
<input type="checkbox"/> Two-Spirit	An all-encompassing term used to describe gender and sexual diversity in Indigenous communities. Two-Spirit people often serve integral and important roles in their communities, such as leaders and healers. There are many understandings of the term Two-Spirit – and this English term does not resonate for everyone. Two-Spirit is a cultural term reserved for those who identify as Indigenous.
<input type="checkbox"/> Woman (cis, trans)	A person whose gender identity may correspond with social expectations associated with being a woman and/or feminine. People who identify as women may be cis (gender identity ‘matches’ birth assigned sex) or trans (gender identity is different from birth assigned sex).

<input type="checkbox"/> An identity not listed (please specify) [open text box]
<input type="checkbox"/> Prefer not to answer

Do you identify as trans or consider yourself to be a part of a trans community?

A person who identifies as trans or as a part of a trans community could identify with a gender other than the one assigned to them at birth, might have a gender identity and/or gender expression which differs from the stereotypical masculine and feminine norms, or other analogous identities or experiences. Trans can be an umbrella term to include a broad array of people including those who identify as trans, transgender, transsexual, genderqueer, gender fluid, nonbinary, or another term.

2. Sexual Orientation

Please indicate which of the following terms best describe your sexual orientation. Check as many as apply. For select options, you may specify further below after selecting.

Response Option	Definition Sub-Text
<input type="checkbox"/> Asexual	A person who experiences little or no sexual attraction to people of any gender.
<input type="checkbox"/> Bisexual	A person who is attracted to people of more than one gender.
<input type="checkbox"/> Gay	A person who is attracted to people of the same gender.
<input type="checkbox"/> Heterosexual / Straight	A person who is attracted to people of the opposite gender.
<input type="checkbox"/> Lesbian	A woman who is attracted to women.
<input type="checkbox"/> Pansexual	A person who is attracted to other people regardless of gender.
<input type="checkbox"/> Queer	An umbrella term used for LGBTQ2S+; reclaimed by some whose sexual orientations and/or gender identities fall outside of cisgender/straight norms.
<input type="checkbox"/> Questioning	When a person is exploring their sexual identity and/or orientation or is unsure with regards to their sexual identity and/or orientation.
<input type="checkbox"/> Two-Spirit	An all-encompassing term used to describe gender and sexual diversity in Indigenous communities. Two-Spirit people often serve integral and important roles in their communities, such as leaders and healers. There are many understandings of the term Two-Spirit – and this English term does not resonate for everyone. Two-Spirit is a cultural term reserved for those who identify as Indigenous.
